THERE ARE ONLY 200 TICKETS AVAILABLE FOR $30 EACH

Duncan's focus is centered on handblown glass and overlay techniques. To finish these works, sandcarving and six-stage grinding and polishing techniques are used.

The drawing will be held on Monday, October 10, 2016 at 7PM before the American Stage After Hours Event: American Heroes & Villains in the American Stage lobby cabaret (163 Third Street North St. Petersburg, FL 33701).

*Suggested Donation. You do not need to be present to win. Winner will be notified via email and phone. This "Drawing by Chance" is conducted in compliance with Florida Statute 849.0935

CONVERSATION WITH DUNCAN McCLELLAN

TELL US ABOUT YOUR PARTNERSHIP WITH AMERICAN STAGE...

We have a ball partnering with American Stage, the whole group that we are involved with are very enthusiastic and it is contagious. We've worked with American Stage for almost 27 years and we've always had a great deal of fun, whether it's for an individual play or American Stage in the Park.

YOU MADE THIS PIECE SPECIFICALLY FOR 'GOOD PEOPLE,' WHAT IS IT ABOUT?

It is about nurturing. It is about how we as individuals nurture each other and I think that will be apparent when you see the piece.

WHAT IS YOUR CREATIVE PROCESS LIKE?

I come up with what I want to make. Then I come up with the icons that will best express that from my point of view. I do want the viewer to be able to read into what they want to see, but I know that it needs to come from an intent that I have.
